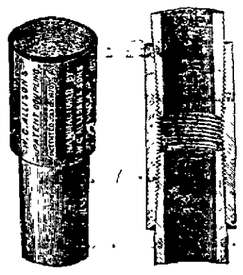
LAP WELDED
Tubing & Casing
Both Plain and Galvanized, for Oil and Salt Wells, American Charcoal Iron Boiler Tubes, Lap Welded Tubing for Steam and Water.



SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
W. C. ALLISON'S
PATENT JOINT
Oil Well Tubing.
This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets and is cut with a vanishing screw thread, corresponding exactly with the thread on the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole length of the joint, and the absence of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.
Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch.

Tubing & Casing.
We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is, that the Lap and the Weld
are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.
Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end, and proved with the sockets on at 6 hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch before shipment.
Each length stamped with our trade mark,

PATENT STEEL JARS.
The undersigned hereby give notice to manufacturers and parties making, selling or using Drilling Jars made of wrought iron or steel combined, that by virtue of certain assignments duly recorded at the United States Patent Office, we own the sole and absolute right, title and interest in three Patents for Drilling Jars; one granted to James C. Eastman, in July, 1867, and two to Edward Guilod, in May, 1868; said patents covering all Jars made of wrought iron and steel combined, and applied substantially in the manner represented in said patents and generally known as steel jars.
Griffin's Patent WATER PACKER!

This is one of the most useful Patents for oil operators ever invented. It has several advantages over any other Seed Bag or water packer in use 1st. It can be put down quicker and is instantly ready for use as there is no waiting for seed to swell, and by its quick action the well is kept clean. 2d. It cannot fasten tubing or casing in a well so that it cannot be taken out readily.

Pet Halsted's Murderer.

AN INTERVIEW WITH BOTTS IN NEWARK JAIL—THE WILES OF THE TEMPTRESS—VISIT OF A BAPTIST MINISTER—THE PHOTOGRAPH ROBBERY—APPEARANCE OF MRS. WILSON'S HOUSE.

From the New York Standard, July 4.

"Pet" Halsted's tragic death was the all absorbing topic in Newark yesterday. It came as an unanticipated revelation of what had long been expected by the few, but was positively known to none save the actors in the tragedy. When a man, moving in the highest circles of society, surrounded by a family whose pride it was, in their innocence and ignorance, to look up to him as their head, thus falls—pity for the dead is apt to be lost in our sympathy for the living. It is idle to reject the belief that such instances of immorality are many, but it is, perhaps, something to be thankful for that the innocent are generally spared the shame and sorrow that must result from the exposure of the guilty. It is only in these rare cases where fate orders otherwise, that the public obtains a glimpse of the corruption that underlies the fair surface of our modern society.

The funeral of the victim of this terrible tragedy will take place to-morrow from his late residence on Broad street, and the remains will be taken to the family burial place in the cemetery of the First Presbyterian church at Elizabeth.

PRISON SCENES.

On Sunday George Parkenfelder, one of the Newark police, was introduced into Botts' cell while he was at supper, so that he should not be able to kill himself with his knife should he feel so inclined. He seemed, to use a police expression, "thoroughly weakened," and between the mouthfuls of food he swallowed he said he thought it pretty rough having to hang, and expressed great contrition for the murder which he had committed, and which had been exclusively prompted by jealousy. He said, "Do you remember, George, when I used to know you when you were office boy, now fourteen years ago? Well, what's done can't be undone, and they may do with me what they like, I don't care; and, George, one word before you leave me; whatever you do have nothing to do with them. Take a warning by me, old friend, George, but I did so love her. You can't think. However, it's all over now, and Pet Halsted, too. I loved her too much, and that's been my fault."

BEWARE OF FALSE WOMEN;

At an early hour yesterday morning numbers of people gathered upon the sidewalks in the immediate vicinity of the station-house, apparently anxious to catch a glimpse of the murderer when he should be removed to the county jail, and while there assembled, patiently awaiting to gratify a morbid curiosity, the tragic event was generally discussed by the crowd, and every newly communicated fact eagerly listened to.

About 9 o'clock the crowd had greatly increased, and the street in front of the station-house was nearly blocked up by people, and the more curious climbed up the high gates of the prison yard and watched and waited for a hoped-for glimpse of the prisoner. In the meantime he sat in his cell, looking subdued and anxious, and watching eagerly each person who was permitted to come to his cell, as if expecting the visit of some near friend. At his urgent solicitation, a glass of brandy was procured for him from a neighboring saloon, and after swallowing it almost at a single gulp, he returned the tumbler to the officer who handed it to him, with the remark, "that, and bad women have cost me thousands and thousands of dollars."

About 9.30 o'clock Coroner Chase arrived with a commitment for the prisoner, and going to his cell informed him that he (the Coroner), should give orders to the jailor that no visitors should see him except in the presence of the warden. To this the prisoner said "All right, Mr. Coroner; I thought to see me and my partner and they are all I care to see." He was then manacled and taken out of his cell by detectives Smith, Stamspy, Fischer and McManus and conducted to the gate leading to the alley on the west side of the prison, where a carriage was in waiting. This was deemed necessary on account of the throng who hung about the station-house, and he stepped lightly into the carriage, followed by the detectives, and was immediately driven to the jail, where he was taken charge of by Colonel Johnson and at once placed in a cell.

While riding in the coach Botts appeared perfectly broken down, and exclaimed: "I wish to God the time for my hanging had come. Anyhow, I don't care a—." And as he was landed in the prison he said: "Well, good-by boys, I hope we shall all meet in heaven."

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE MURDERER

Through the courtesy of Col Johnson, of the County Jail, a Standard reporter was permitted to have an interview with the murderer, Botts. Entering the immense square hall which serves as a jail, the reporter ascended, as directed, a flight of steps, which brought him to the first tier, and, stepping over the legs of several men who were squatted before the cell, as he was passing No. 19, one of those lazzaroni in prison-pent said: "If you want the murderer, he's at 22." Tapping at the number indicated, he called out to its occupant to be good enough to come to the cell door to answer some questions, as he wanted to gain some further information respecting him. A rustling noise was heard, and a movement was seen on the pallet bed. The sun had already set. The herculean frame of George Botts emerged from Cimmerian darkness, and after expressing some dislike to the idea of speaking with a reporter, as he thought it might do him harm or prejudice his case, he at last consented to open his lips and answer the questions put to him.

Botts is six feet two or three inches in height. His hair is reddish, and his beard, of the same color, is worn long under the chin. He has blue eyes, an aquiline nose, a long and rather thin face. His complexion is abnormally red: of such a color as exposure to the sun and the use of alcohol will produce. He wore a black felt hat, a blue coat, white vest, brown linen pantaloons and low patent leather shoes. Spots of blood were on his vest and linen. He was smoking a cigar. The effects of reaction and reflection were apparent—depression and weariness, dread and nervousness under good control, mingled with a degree of rashness, as though from thinking long on one side of a question.

Botts' record among the drinking saloons of Newark somewhat resembles that enjoyed here by Reddy the Blacksmith, a mixture of fiend and coward. When in his cups he would hit right and left, but always men of smaller stature than himself, and when riding in the cars he would, when drunk, systematically refuse to pay his fare, but when asked for it subsequently he would generally, after much grumbling, hand over the six cents. As a soldier in the Fifteenth New Jersey Regiment his career is contemptible. On account of his huge dimensions he was appointed color-bearer, and at Antietam he threw down his flag and took to his legs! Subsequently "he played sick," and then deserted. In short, from first to last, his career has been that of a bully and a coward.

The following dialogue took place between the reporter and the murderer:

Reporter: You are an Englishman, I think, Botts?

Murderer: Yes, sir; I'm a Lancashire lad. I was born in 1835, and I've lived here about forty years. I came over very young to this country, and I now consider myself an American. My trade is charcoal-burning, and sometimes I have made as much as thirty dollars a day by it.

Reporter: Is it true that you are worth $20,000, as reported?

Murderer: Not exactly, by a long sight; perhaps my brother Johnny is.

Reporter: Where does he live?

Murderer: He lives at Rockaway Valley, and I have another brother who lives at Whitehall, and both of them are churchgoers. I wish I had been.

Reporter: How did you come to shoot "Pet" Halsted?

Murderer: Who can prove I shot him? (fiercely).

Reporter: You confessed it to the policeman who arrested you. Well, never mind that, tell me how you made the acquaintance of Mrs. Wilson.

Murderer: Liquor made us acquainted; about four years ago I was on a drunken spree, and I was introduced to her by a friend, and I visited her frequently. She used to live at that time in Nine Row, where she kept three girls, and I made her house my headquarters, and fooled away a deal of money for buying her jewelry and fine togs, and the

in my life was to play her off as my wife upon a number of my friends. They were all well pleased with her, and thought she was a nice, quiet-looking woman, and that tickled me to death. She promised to help me to get a divorce, and she was to get one herself, and we were to live happily together. I loved her to distraction, as I do now, and I will love her till the breath is out of my body. When I think over it I say, to myself, how is it possible I can love such a woman with all my heart? But I do, and that's the trouble. I think she is a woman to be loved and admired, don't you, reporter? (Although Botts did not choose to expose that he had been suffering from the pangs of disorded affection, it was evident that the man had suffered burning pangs of jealousy.)

Murderer: Well, to go on with my story, I got to stop at her house till Pet put his nose in, and played off being her counselor; but I knew he would do nothing to get her a divorce, and it was all a plan to switch me off. I used to be a Methodist, and not ashamed of my religion; but I've gone to the dogs now. The gold watch she wears I gave her. You will find a ring on her finger with her initials and mine on it. I gave her the breastpin and ear-rings she has on. I gave $35 for them to a man in the jewelry shop opposite Bigelow's varnish factory. Was at Carpenter's Hotel with her about three weeks ago. I gave her a twenty dollar bill each time to live on. I've forsaken my children and everything for that woman. I thought more of her than anything in this world. She won me. We lived over Jim Garrigan's a year, two years ago. The first time I was in her house and knew her, I coaxed her out of the business. She was poor. I dressed her children up and her. There wasn't a thing on her back but what I paid for. She is under obligations to me for everything she's got. I have seen no peace at all. She has always treated me well when I've been with her. I might have been worth a hundred thousand dollars if I'd taken care of my money. I have boarded at 30 Bellevue avenue.

Reporter: Have you any relations hereabouts?

Murderer: I have well-to-do relatives. I have a brother worth about twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars. My brother John lives in Rockaway Valley, near Boonton; as I told you. He is a farmer.

The whole trouble

HAS COME THROUGH DRINK

and my falling in love with a woman I should not have spoken to. I have not had a visit from my counsel, and I think it rather queer of him not to come and consult with me.

The trial of Botts will not take place before September, and if convicted his execution can hardly take place before January next.

THE FIRST MURDER IN FOUR YEARS.

Although Newark has a population of 125,000, the present is the only murder that has occurred in four years. On the night of the 4th of July, 1867, Patrick Tormey was assaulted and stabbed by two roughs named Thomas Welsh and Bernard Farley. Welsh was convicted of murder in the first degree, and hanged by Sheriff Duff on the second day of January, 1868. Farley was also convicted of murder in the first degree, but was subsequently granted a new trial, and escaped with ten or fifteen years' imprisonment, which he is now serving at Trenton.

A MINISTER OF PEACE

During the course of yesterday the Rev. W. D Steafried, Baptist minister, of Eaton town, in Monmouth county, after he had performed the burial service over the son of Colonel A. J. Johnson, the keeper of the prison, spoke a few words of Christian comfort to the miserable man, who had cut off a fellow man in full health.

MRS. LINCOLN AND PET HALSTED.

When Mrs. Lincoln and Tad arrived here by the Russia from England some weeks ago, the first friend to welcome her on her arrival home was "Pet" Halsted, and coming up the bay the two old friends talked uninterruptedly together until the landing was reached.

THE STOLEN PHOTOGRAPHS.

The photographic album found at Mrs. Wilson's rooms, containing the portraits of some of Newark's prominent citizens, which was under the charge of Coroner Chase, was yesterday removed surreptitiously, and for the peace of many households it is, perhaps, well.

THE SCENE OF THE MURDER.

The house, No. 95 South street, is about one hundred yards east of the New Jersey Railroad, on the south side. It is new, three-storied, painted white, with green shutters, and occupied by a German named John Spies, who keeps a lager beer saloon on the first floor. A portion of the upper floors are let to boarders, Mrs. Wilson occupying the two rear rooms on the third floor, one as a bedroom, and the other as a parlor, sitting-room and kitchen combined, in which she prepared her own meals. Spies is a stolid-looking, ignorant German, who seems to have no other purpose in life than to make money, not having the common decency to close his place of business while the dead body remained there awaiting the action of the authorities. To him the sad occurrence proved a rich harvest, which will continue while the sensation lasts, as thousands of people will doubtless visit the house to gratify a morbid curiosity. From the rear of the house there is a wide lane leading into Thomas street, and from the apartments occupied by Mrs. Wilson there is an unobstructed view south across the meadows. Great crowds assembled around the house all day from curiosity, but it was strictly guarded, only the coroner's jury, the doctors and reporters being admitted.

APPEARANCE OF THE FATAL APARTMENTS.

The bed chamber is a small room over the front hall, entered from the sitting room. Its contents a bed, the clothing of which was tumbled, a wash stand, three chairs, and two trunks at the foot of the bed. In an open drawer was a quantity of hair and a hymn book marked "Mary E Oliver," a remembrance of earlier and purer days. The table was covered with a white cloth upon which stood two bottles of pickled oysters, a bottle of pickles, a bottle of Scheidam Schnapps, a bottle of port wine, a can of condensed coffee, one of condensed milk, and crockery sufficient for the accommodation of two persons, indicating a recent lunch. Near by lay a volume of Byron, with a paper mark at "Don Juan," while another volume of the same author was opened at one of the stormiest passages in "Manfred," beginning with "We are the fools of time," which the lovers had evidently been reading together. Besides there there was a curious collection of maxims on "Love," from Walt Whitman and others. Near this lay an album, which contained likenesses of Mrs. Wilson's children, family and friends, but even this was strangely disfigured by the pictures of some pretty but well known girls who resorted to her house in Railroad avenue. There was besides a little copy of the New Testament, with Ollie Wilson (her son's name) on the fly leaf, and the mark was significantly left at Corinthian's viii: 1. Besides this there was a huge Bible, in which all the records of her family were carefully kept, and the name of a little dead daughter had been blotted with tears.

Faro, Past and Present.

The general belief that faro is a modern form of gambling, peculiar to this country, is altogether a mistake. Faro can boast an antiquity which would confer respectability on any less degrading pursuit. Two hundred years ago it was the fashionable vice of the young "bloods" of the English metropolis, and soon assumed the infamous character at the public tables of London which it has at this day in this country. The following "list of the officers established in the most notorious gaming houses" is extracted from the Daily Journal, published in London, of Jan. 9, 1731, and has its exact counterpart in the list of officials employed at present in the gambling hells of New York:

1. A Commissioner, always a proprietor, who looks in of a night, and the week's account is audited by him and two other proprietors. 2. A Director, who superintends the room. 3 An Operator, who deals the cards at a cheating game called Faro. 4. Two Crowpeers, who watch the cards, and gather the money from the bank. 5. Two Puffs, who have money given them to decoy others to play. 6 A Clerk, who is a check upon the puffs to see that they sink none of the money given them to play with. 7. A Squib is a puff of lower rank, who serves at half-pay salary while he is learning to deal. 8. A Flasher, to swear how often the bank has been stripped. 9. A Dunner, who goes about to receive money lost at play. A Waiter, to fill out wine, to snuff candles and attend the gaming room. 11. An Attorney, a Newgate solicitor. 12. A Captain who is to fight any gentleman who is peevish for losing his money. 13. An Usher, who lights gentlemen up and down stairs, and gives word to the porter. 14. A Porter, who is generally a soldier. 15. An Orderly man who walks up and down the outside of the door to give notice to the porter and alarm the house at the approach of the constable. 16. A runner, who is to get intelligence of the Justices' meeting. 17. Link boys, coachmen, chairmen, or others, who bring intelligence from the Justices' meeting, or of the constables being out, at half a guinea reward. 18 Common-bail, affidavit men, ruffians, bravadoes, assassins, cum multis aliis.

Drainage Would Pay.

Alderman Mechi, the successful English farmer, in an article on drains, in the Mark Lane Express, says: Unseen water, making itself felt only near the surface, is a most insidious enemy to plants.

THE murder of Pet. Hilstead, a rich, fashionable man, of high standing, socially and politically, under circumstances scandalous to his name, and disgraceful to his family, we print a full account of on our first page. It is the old story. First, an ill assorted marriage; next, criminal intercourse with a bad woman; third, jealousy of another paramour; fourth, a debauch of one party, a fit of intoxication inflaming the jealousy of another, and last scene of all, a horrible murder and assassination. No, there is one scene more. There is yet a man to be hung. There is more yet. An old man is to have his gray hairs brought to the grave in sorrow. A wife and children are to bear a name linked forever with a bloody scandal, and foul with wrong.

"Tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis 'tis true.

The Northern Pacific Railroad.

The troubles in the Red River region, which were so recently shaking the fabric of the Dominion of Canada, seem at last to have been settled, and the new Province of Manitoba, as it is called, has entered upon a peaceful career of prosperity and progress. In the "speech from the throne," which recently closed the first session of the Legislature, Lieutenant Governor Archibald speaks encouragingly of the laws which have been passed and the organization which has been established, and declares that great changes are impending in the material circumstances of the Province. These changes, he says, are heralded by the arrival of a new and well-built steamship, laden to its utmost capacity on its first voyage with passengers and freight, and adds, that that event closes the history of the country's isolation. The above hopeful views, moreover, are confirmed by the news which comes from Canada, that simultaneously with the movement of population to our own Northwest, a tendency is at least manifesting itself on the part of emigrants to settle in the adjacent provinces.

The chief agent, no doubt, in bringing about these changes, is the Northern Pacific Railroad. Starting at Lake Superior, which must always be the headquarters of the entire Northwest—this road runs across the continent just below the border, and the first navigable stream which it crosses is the Red River of the North, which, running through Manitoba and connecting through Lake Winnipeg with other rivers, taps the entire commerce of nearly all the British Provinces of the Northwest. The immense territory embraced in these provinces has absolutely no other commercial outlet, being separated from Canada proper by the impassable area south of James Bay, so that the political results of the building of the Northern Pacific road seem likely to prove not less important to the nation than the opening up of our new Northwest. Identity of commercial interests is sure, sooner or later, to bring about harmony of public sentiment, and the very stimulus given by this enterprise to progress and settlement in the Provinces will strengthen greatly the bonds which we are fastening upon the Dominion in the Northwest. Settlements in the fertile belt depending upon the Red River and the Northern Pacific for their connections with the rest of the world, can never be kept long separate from those other settlements which the same agent is developing on our side of the boundary line.

Maine.

The platform of the Maine Republicans is in fine contrast to that of the Democrats of the Pine Tree state. The latter, in deference to the new departure, accepts the amendments to the constitution, premising, however, that they ought to be condemned, and is throughout a whining, whoedling document, contradictory in terms and insincere to the most careless observer. The former speaks in bold terms in favor of the amendments and on every subject which it presents. We particularly commend this resolution:

Resolved, That we cherish a patriotic and honorable pride in the past history of the Republican party, identified, as it is, with the great triumphs of human freedom and progress, with the emancipation of oppressed people from bondage, and with the preservation of our country from anarchy and ruin, threatened by the late rebellion; and that while we fuoly appreciate the great questions now presented to the country, many of which are the outgrowth of the civil war just ended, we rejoice that, unlike those whose record in opposition to the war for the preservation of the Union is unchangeably written, we have no cause for consigning the past with its eventful memories to oblivion, and no desire to forget the lessons of patriotism and loyalty contained in its teachings.

This expression is equally pronounced and praiseworthy:

Resolved, That while we recognize the excellence of our State government, existing under and acting in harmony with the Constitution of the United States, we believe that the Federal government, established under the same constitution, does possess and ought to exercise sufficient power to protect every American citizen in the untrammeled expression of his sentiments, in the free exercise of the ballot, in the fullest enjoyment of his property, and in the absolute safety of his person wherever the American flags float over American soil, and that this protection of the government should extend to the person of every citizen of the United States, whether upon land or sea, at home or abroad.

General Grant's administration is also warmly indorsed; and in truth the entire series of resolutions is bold and manly. The people will compare the two platforms and the result cannot but be favorable. If a halting, hesitating indorsement of certain principles is demanded by the exigencies of a party, certainly bold, prompt action to the same end will secure the confidence and support of the people.

A gentleman from Philadelphia was recently commending a young friend to the notice of a Chicago merchant, and closed his appeal by saying: "He comes of a very good family; both his father and grandfather were prominent men in the East." "Were they?" responded the merchant; "that is good, but it is of no account with us here. There is less daddyism in Chicago than any other place in the United States."

The Mayor of St. Joseph, Missouri, gave permission to a citizen to kill two dogs which annoyed him, and the next morning the Mayor found two of his own dogs dead, with his own warrant of permission for their killing pinned on their bodies. Though he hasn't exactly got the hydrophobia, that Mayor is mad.

Gleanings.

Twenty-one Montana ladies recently arrived at Sioux City on their way East, not one of whom was attended by a gentleman.

A snake about fifteen feet long was discovered a day or two ago in the woods on the side of the country road connecting the Leesburg with the Washington turnpike, Virginia.

A soldier of the late war having been sick in the hospital returned to duty on the 23d day of the month, was discharged on the 23d, died on the 23d, his widow applied for a pension on the 23d, and the claim was completed on the 23d.

Hattie M. Cole, aged ten years, says a Pennsylvania exchange, a daughter of Mr. John P. Cole, of Buckingham, Wayne county, Pa., is, and has been for a long time, troubled with a living creature in her stomach. What it is no one can tell for a certainty, but physicians in Owego, where she was taken recently for treatment, think there is no doubt of its being a snake. By putting the finger on the stomach, where the creature can be seen distinctly to lie, it quickly changes its position, and even when the finger is within an inch or so of the stomach it will as quickly move away. All these changes produce pain to the girl. She recently got hold of the creature with her hand in her throat, but had to let it go to save herself from strangling. It then returned to her stomach. Dr. McElwee, medical electrician, operated on the girl at Oswego with his battery, but was obliged to desist, as it caused the snake to squirm and throw itself about so as to cause the subject the most intense agony.

The school-house question, which has caused so much controversy at Newburyport, Mass., is about settled. The committee on public instruction has reported in favor of converting the city hall into a school-house and building a new hall large enough to accommodate the city government, police department, post office and the military. The estimated cost is $80,000, and the common council has ordered a committee to procure plans and see to the location.

An Irishman having jumped into the water to save a man from drowning, upon receiving a quarter from the person as a reward for the service, looked first at the money and then at him, and at last exclaimed: "I'm overpaid for the job."

There was a disappointed crowd in Virginia the other day. Two condemned persons were to be hanged, but "at the last moment" the Governor sent in a respite, it not being altogether clear that the prisoners were guilty. When people lose a whole day to go to a hanging, the Governor who disappoints them in this manner hasn't the proper feeling toward his enlightened fellow-citizens.

There is living in Wisconsin a lady named Mrs. Katy Terry, who will, on the 7th of July be 104 years old. She was personally acquainted with George Washington, who visited her father's house during the revolutionary war, and she is quite well possessed of her faculties, as but a short time since she could converse upon the subject of the recent rebellion.

This is the way the sun sets at New Orleans: "Far as the eye could reach the flood extended in muddy waves like a tawny sea. Through many streets the arching trees lent picturesque enchantment to the scene, and all the tall houses cast their shadows in transient flickering light. Through this spectacle of forest, city and sea, the sun in the evening kissed a radient good night. It was the smile of divinity that pervaded the scene in that beautiful gleam of the sun. Like watching sentinels of the clouds, fleecy and white, bent low on the water. In curious figures the light and the shadows came and went as the sun sunk in the twilight. But a moment before it faded from view the glittering beams flashed a farewell glow on waters and sky, and through the foliage of green, and all nature was silent in the flush of the scene when the night set in." (Applause.)

Elizabeth McCready, a Pennsylvania woman, beat her husband, an old man of ninety years, so severely that he died from the effects.

A young Pennsylvanian, who made arrangements to marry against the wishes of some of his relatives, was last week taken from his bed at the dead of night by masked men, carried to the woods, and being tied to a tree, naked, was beaten with heavy whips until nearly dead. Two of the perpetrators of the outrage have been arrested.

Personal.

Bishop Clark, of Rhode Island, has preached thirty-five years.

Secretary Boutwell will spend a few weeks at his home in Groton, Mass.

It is reported that Senator Morton, in a speech in Indiana, advocated the enfranchisement of women.

Cassius M Clay is now a Democrat of the New Departure, and is going to run for the Legislature in Kentucky.

Miss Carlotta Patti will soon return to the United States.

Mde. Adelina Patti will not come to America until next year.

Colonel William Maynadier, of the Ordnance Department, died Monday morning at his residence in Washington, aged 65 years. Colonel Maynadier was appointed to service in the Military Academy, July, 1827, and attained the rank of colonel in 1863.

General Chitz, George Francis Train, Adrain Masei, Minister of the Netherlands, George Smalley, of the Tribune, Prof. Sparks and several other gentlemen, sailed from New York for Europe, Saturday.

Among the notables reported as attending Collector Murphy's banquet to the President, at Long Branch, Saturday night, are General B F. Butler, Caleb Cushing, Dexter Smith, the poet, Gov Lindsay and Judge Busteed, of Alabama.

Substitutes for Hay.

Something may yet be done to make up for the expected deficiency in the hay crop. The following suggestions in this direction are urged upon the attention of our farmers:

1. Fodder corn may be sown any time during this month.

2. Turnips can be put in now, and are a valuable auxiliary feeding crop. If the present drouth should force farmers to sow them to a larger extent, great benefit would come of it.

3 On some land (where a very light burden of grass is growing), it may be advisable to plow it under and sow a late crop of oats or rye to be cut as fodder. Should this be decided upon, delay the sowing until rains take place.

4 Hungarian grass and millet are good substitutes for hay. The same course may be pursued with these crops as with oats and rye as above mentioned.

Young Chickens.

Chicks under two weeks should be fed as often as every two hours; be careful and feed no more than they will eat up clean each time. The first feed should be given as soon after daylight as possible, the last just at dark. See that your chicks have green food; if they are not where they can reach it, mix it with their feed—grass chopped fine, lettuce, etc. A little meat once a day with their food is a good thing.—Poultry Standard.

Toledo Races.

TOLEDO, O, July 6.

The races to-day under the auspices of the Driving Park Association were well patronized. The three minute race was won by Ed. Foster, of Albion, N. Y., in three straight heats. Time—2:39, 2:37½, 2:39. Susan, of Cambridge City, Indiana, took the second money, and Silversides, of Ogdensburgh, N. Y., the third. In the 2:39 race the first heat was taken by Red Cloud, of Elinburgh, Indiana, in 2:32½, and the second by John Fero, of Detroit, in 2:30, when the race was postponed till ten o'clock to-morrow, owing to alleged foul play on the part of Fero's driver.

Severe Storm.

WHEELING, W. VA, July 6.

A terrible storm of wind and rain, accompanied by fearful lightning, passed over Moundsville, 12 miles below this city, about five o'clock this p. m. The stockade around the West Virginia Penitentiary was blown down and a prisoner named Frank Jennings, from Wetzel county, escaped. Houses were unroofed, fences blown down, and great quantities of grain destroyed.

French Elections Republican.

PARIS, July 4.

A general estimate of supplementary elections show that of one hundred and forty deputies elected, are one hundred and twenty Republicans, eight Legitimists and twelve Bonapartists. Official returns will differ but little from the estimate. Faidherbe, Gambetta and Danfort are each returned from three different assembly districts. The majority of Republicans elected belong to the moderate wing of the party. The proportion being ninety-five moderate to twenty-five radical. The unexpected strength developed by Republicans in the Provinces discourages the partizans of monarchy. The failure of Imperialists surprises nobody, but the weakness of the Legitimists produces a sensation. It is feared the Assembly will be more divided than ever, and that it will be impossible to obtain a compact working majority or determine which party has the balance of power.

Evacuation Demanded.

The French government has demanded an early evacuation of the forts near Paris and of the three Departments occupied by German troops. Bismarck declines to give positive promise to comply with the demand.

Republican Rejoicing.

Republican journals are rejoicing over the overwhelming vote given for the candidates of their party in the country districts, and regard the victory as one calculated to re-establish permanently a republic in France. The monarchial press, on the other hand, show signs of panic, and accuse each other of want of devotion and energy in the canvass.

Will Renew Publication.

The Presse will renew publication tomorrow under the management of Guerone.

French Assembly.

It will be observed that there is an unreconcilable difference in all reports relating to members and vacancies in the French Assembly to be filled at supplementary elections. The dispatch above speaks of one hundred and forty delegates having just been chosen, whereas, previous accounts gave only about one hundred and twelve or one hundred and fourteen vacancies to filled.

Result of the Elections.

PARIS, July 5.

The Journal Des Dobats says the election details are favorable to the Bordeaux programme. The victory is not one for the Republicans, who owe their success to the division of their opponents, but for the order and peace of the Republicans. However jubilant over the success, the Siecle says, the Bonapartists have been condemned by the results of the election and the Legitimists have resumed the position of a small minority. The opposition between the cities and the country has disappeared, and the real France appears. The siege of Paris will probably be raised to-day as a prelude to the removal of the government from Versailles. The latest classification of members of the Assembly, as elected on Sunday, is as follows: 86 Thiertists; 13 Radicals; 2 Legitimatists; 3 Orleanists and 1 Bonapartist.

Proclamation Regarding the Treaty.

WASHINGTON, July 5.

The proclamation of the Treaty of Washington, dated yesterday, commences as follows:

By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, A treaty between the United States of America and Her Majesty Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, concerning the settlement of all cause of differences between the two countries, was concluded and signed at Washington by the High Commissioners and the Plenipotentiaries of the respective governments on the 8th of May last, which treaty is word for word as follows: (Here follows the treaty.) The proclamation thus concludes, and

Whereas, Said treaty has been duly ratified on both parts of respective ratifications the same were exchanged in the city of London the 17th day of June, 1871, by Robert C Schenck, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States, and Earl Granville, Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, on the part of their respective governments, now, therefore, be it known that I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States of America, have caused the said treaty to be made public, to that end that the same and every clause and article thereof may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and citizens thereof.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the city of Washington the Fourth day of July, in the year of our Lord 1871, and the independence of the United States the ninety-sixth.

By the President, U. S. GRANT.

The Murderer Foster.

NEW YORK, July 6.

A stay of proceedings has been granted in the case of Foster by Judge Pratt, of Brooklyn. The writ of error is made returnable November 6th. Governor Hoffman, on application of Judge Stewart, has appointed next Monday to hear the prayer and argument for commutation of Foster's sentence to imprisonment for life In case the Governor decides to commute Foster's sentence all further legal proceedings will be at once suspended.

Suicide.

John M. Dew, of Thirty-fourth street, formerly of Augusta, Ga, and worth at one time nearly a million dollars, most of which has been lost in speculations in this city, committed suicide in Madison Square, last night, by a dose of laudanum.

General Cavada.

President Grant gives a favorable hearing to the petition presented him yesterday by a number of ex-army officers asking the intercession of the government to save the life of the Cuban general Cavada, and referred the matter to the Department of State for consideration and action.

Trial for Perjury.

The trial of naval officer Laflin, for perjury, in testimony given in a previous suit here, will occur next week. Laflin and his friends claim their ability to prove the prosecution is malicious.

New Steamships.

A new steamer of the White Star Line, The Republic, was launched at Belfast, Ireland, on the 4th of July. The third new steamship of the line, the Baltic, will arrive at this port next month.

Pier Building.

The Dock Commissioners this afternoon decided to begin at once the construction of a new pier, 500 feet long by 60 wide at the foot of Fifty-seventh street, East River. The work will be under the supervision of General McClellan, and will be the first pier under the new system.

Explosion—Fire.

COHOES, N. Y, July 6.

An explosion occurred in the Union Hotel this morning, followed by fire which consumed four dwellings and the hotel. Loss, $10,000. Insurance unknown. The proprietor of the hotel was badly burned.

Sunstroke.

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.

A fatal case of sunstroke occurred yesterday.

A Terrible Storm.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, July 6.

A terrible rain and wind storm visited Western Iowa and Eastern Nebraska Rain fell in torrents in this city, but the main force of the wind struck further down the valley, prostrating the telegraph lines, unroofing buildings, etc. Train No. 6 on the Nebraska Division of the Sioux City and Pacific Railroad, when about two miles north of Scribner, Nebraska, was struck by the storm, and the entire train, excepting the engine, consisting of a coach, baggage and mail and way car, was blown from the track. There were about twenty passengers in the coach, all of whom were more or less injured, but none mortally. The conductor, McLeod, had his shoulder broken; the mail messenger, Whitmore, was injured internally, and it is thought that he cannot recover. The mail car was blown a distance of two hundred feet from the track A small engine house at Blair was blown down and several buildings unroofed.

Murder.

ST LOUIS, July 6.

The report of the murder of Henry T. Blow, at Granby, Mo., on the 4th, proves to be a mistake. A dispatch from Granby states it was Scott Dunlap, a saloon keeper, who was killed, Albert Krey being the murderer. Young Blow was in no way connected with the affair.

Card from General Sheppard.

Gen Sheppard, Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of the State, will publish a card to morrow in reply to a paragraph in the Washington Chronicle of July 3rd, in which he flatly denies ever having taken any action whatever against Gen. Smith, Postmaster of this city, or against Supervisor McDonald, or having asked President Grant, directly or indirectly, to remove either He further states that his recent visit to Washington was in no way connected with St. Louis officials.

Railroad Building.

LOUISVILLE, KY, July 6

The Board of Directors of the Elizabethtown and Paducah Railroad have under consideration a proposition from L H Myer, of New York city, who represents foreign iron firms, and offers to furnish all the iron needed to complete the unfinished portion of the road from Greenville to Paducah, ninety-two miles, taking the bonds of the company at 57½ interest in payment. Eighty-five thousand dollars will make the above portion ready for the iron, as all of it is under contract to be finished by April, 1872. The entire road is 195 miles long.

Sentenced.

John Morton, the son of a prominent and wealthy citizen, was to-day sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for killing Hiram Powers, in a bawdy house in this city, last May.

Long Branch Races.

LONG BRANCH, July 6.

The selling race to day for a purse of $5 000, for all ages, one and one fourth miles, was won by Idaho in 2:16¼ beating Nellie James, Bella Mead, Lelland, Girard, and six others.

The Monmouth Oak Stakes, $2,000, for three year old fillies, one and half miles, was won by Salina in 2:31¼, beating Mary Clark, Mary Louise, Eastern Star, and others

The third race for the Long Branch Stakes, $1,700, all ages, one half miles, Hetmbold won in 1:41¼, beating Judge Curtis, and Boucham's black gelding.

Sailed for Europe.

REAL ESTATE.—W. W. Kingsland has bought of W. T. Neill one full lot northwest corner of Main and Kerr streets. Price $3,000 cash.

THE summer meeting of the Tidioute Driving Park Association commenced yesterday, and will continue through Friday and Saturday. The amount of purses is $1,500.

THE new oil pipe from South West township to Garland is about completed and ready for business. They have a telegraph line in the same route for their own convenience.

WE have been informed on good authority that Mr. Megahey acted very liberally towards the Irish Benevolent Society in refusing to accept any compensation for what ale he supplied them with.

MR. FRED. STANFIELD, the popular scenic artist, who was lately in our city with "Frits," is down for a complimentry benefit at the Academy of Music, Buffalo, tendered him by Joseph Emmet and Charles Gayler.

COLONEL FORNEY was serenaded at Franklin on the night of the Fourth, at the Exchange Hotel, where a large audience was assembled. He was introduced by the Hon. C. W. Gilhihan, and responded in a happy impromptu speech.

FALLING OF AN OIL TANK.—A four hundred barrel oil-tank belonging to Patterson's refinery on Boyd Farm, on the 5th, fell from the staging, and spilled the contents all over the premises. The tank is a complete wreck, and is supposed to have been nearly full at the time of the accident.

THE most comical and at the same time novel turnout on the forenoon of the 4th was a small four-wheeled beer chariot, with a triumphal arch, and loaded with small imitation beer barrels, drawn by four goats. This ingenious and beautiful turnout was driven through the streets over two hours and was admired by all classes.

QUERY.—The old minstrel conundrum of "who is the mother of the chicken, the hen who laid or the hen who hatched the eggs?" is mixed up worse than ever by a turkey gobbler on Monroe street, who is now setting on a nest of hen's eggs, and attending strictly to business. If he should succeed with his little "hatch it," who is the mother? not the hen certainly, nor the gobbler. We leave the question for the philosophers.

THE Corry Blade says the only accident they heard of on the Fourth was that of the firing of a rocket through the door of P. L. Kimball's drug store into his perfumery case. In another place in the same paper is given an account of a fall which the infant daughter of Mr. P. L. Kimball met with by which she fractured her arm. Mr. Kimball undoubtedly thinks the latter a greater accident than that which happened to his perfumery case.

HYDETOWN.—It is not good policy to ask people to make their residence in another town than Titusville, if they are going to do business here, but the high price of real estate will compel some to go to Hydetown and build. Many have done so already. The borough presents a neat, well-kept and lively appearance. A number of good houses have been erected this year and more are being built. The trains run so as to make it quite convenient to travel between Titusville and Hydetown

MR. JOHN W. DAVOCK, son of an old resident of Buffalo, was fatally shot on the 4th of July by the careless discharge of a pistol in the hands of James Emery, who was simply amusing himself in this foolish and criminal way. Mr. Davock was about thirty years of age, and secretary of the Buffalo Rolling Mills. He lately married the daughter of Dr. Lookwood, of that city. The boy Emery, who is a law clerk, is now in custody. This is another warning against the careless use of firearms without aim or reason.

"A NARROW ESCAPE"—On the evening of the 4th, as Frank Ward was about to unhitch his horses, after driving the Concordia Sangerbund all the afternoon, his hostler came very near meeting with a serious accident. As he was about to unhitch them the leader kicked with all its might. The man was knocked senseless for about two minutes, but revived after a little brandy had been poured down his throat and he appeared to be all right when we left the scene. Every one thought he was killed. He was to close to the horse to be injured much.

RAVEL-MARTINETTI TROUPE.—It will be seen by the advertisement that the world-renowned Ravel-Martinetti ballet and pantomime troupe will give two performances at the Parshall Opera House on the afternoon and evening of Saturday. The performance will commence with "Jocko, or the Brazilian Ape," to be followed by the fairy trick pantomime entitled "Mystic Gift." This troupe is too well known throughout the entire world to require any commendation from us. Those who saw them years ago know that they are the best that ever traveled.

DENIER'S NOVELTY THEATRE.—This evening is set apart for the benefit of Miss Maggie Willett, and a very attractive programme is offered for the occasion. A new local drama arranged for the occasion, entitled the Titusville Fireman, will be produced with local hits, new scenery by Mr. Smith, introducing Church Run, oil tank on fire, &c. To add to the occasion, Rescue Hook and Ladder Company and Col. Drake Engine Company No. 1 will attend in uniform. Miss Willett will appear as Alice Hawthorne in the drama, and in her specialty of Good-for-Nothing Nan. Mr Edwin Mackie has volunteered and will appear in his clog dance and Ethiopian comicalities, assisted by the entire company in a long and varied entertainment.

IMPORTANT REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION.—An important real estate sale took place yesterday, negotiations for which have been in progress for some weeks. Messrs. John C. Bryan and W. W. Kingsland yesterday closed the bargain for that valuable tract of land known as the Funk homestead and estate, situate in the east port and Fourth ward of our city. The tract contains about seven acres of land, including one of the finest residences in the city, situate on Pine street, surrounded with lawn, gardens, shrubbery and commodious barns, etc, as well as the well-known Titusville House and large barn occupied by Dr. Carr, and appurtenances, also on Pine street. This property, hitherto unbroken in bulk, will now be intersected with streets, Spring street being extended east and Drake and Kerr being extended south to intersect Spring street.

The whole block, from the Crittenden House to Church Run, passes with the transfer, excepting the McDonald and Barry residences. The price paid was $50,000. The sale is a good one for the Funk estate, but the gentlemen who have bought it are accustomed to handling real property, and have the means and spirit to carry out their plans of improvement and bring the property into market by placing the lots in eligible situations and at fair prices. We presume in their hands their investment will be turned to profit. Among the first things contemplated and to be carried out without delay, is the sewering and paving of Pine street, from the Crittenden House east to Church Run. The Fourth Ward is looking up, and we expect to see a great addition to its population within the next twelve months, and that of a very substantial character.

THE ORATIONS ON THE FOURTH.—In justice to our distinguished guest, and one of the orators of the day, ex-Governor Pollock, it should be stated that our reporter's sketch of his address was taken "on the fly," to use a ball-game phrase, and is only the rudest outline of his eloquent address, the leading thread of which was the tracing of the historical development of human liberty, or civil liberty under the various civilizations and forms of government, which prevailed in ancient and modern times, mingled with a rapid glance at the grand features in the prosperity and resources of our imperial commonwealth, and with local hits, allusions and lessons pertinent to our times and circumstances. To the interruptions of the audience, the gentleman had ever a ready and apt repartee, and his eloquent address will be remembered with pleasure by those who heard it.

Rev. Mr. Bignall's oration we published from his manuscript, in justice both to that gentleman and to our people. The circumstances under which he spoke prevented him from going at any length into the topics so philosophically handled and eloquently elaborated in this discourse. We are glad to present it in a form for studious consideration.

FUNK RESIDENCE.—This well-known landmark of Titusville, one of the finest residences in our city for location, construction, surroundings, and general commodiousness, for city business as well as residence, was built, we believe, by Mr. George Brewer, some ten years ago. That gentleman occupied it two or three years, and sold it to Jonathan Watson, who made extensive additions and improvements to the house and grounds. Mr. Watson sold it to the late Mr. Funk, about the year 1864, whose family have occupied it to this day, and maintained it in appropriate style. We understand it is the intention of Mrs. Funk to remove soon with her family to Fredonia, for the education of her young children. Mrs. F. is a lady held in proper esteem for her charities and Christian worth, and the best wishes of a large circle of friends will accompany her.

ON the morning of the "Fourth" at about 8 o'clock, Dan Rice's band wagon was struck by a locomotive, on the south side of the Union depot, at Erie, and smashed up. Two men jumped off the wagon just before the engine struck it and escaped injury. The horses were not hurt. The first report that reached us was to the effect that the men in charge of the wagon were drunk, but during the afternoon performance at the circus, while detailing the misadventure of the early part of the day, the heavy rain, etc., Dan Rice said his band wagon had been smashed by a railroad train, and that "either the engineer was drunk or the fireman was running the machine."

A CARD.—I desire to return thanks, on behalf of Mr. George P. Steinbech, of Baltimore, Maryland, for the prompt and full settlement, by the Committee of Arrangements of the Fourth of July celebration at the city of Titusville, of the bill of fireworks purchased of him. Also to Col. Pitcher and W. W. Kingsland for valuable assistance rendered in their exhibition. Also to American Express Company for free transit of same to this place, and to Arcutt Bros. and Mr. Williams for free drayage to the grounds.

H. E. DABELL,
Agent for Star Fireworks Factory, Baltimore.

IT is notable as well as highly gratifying that of the thousands who came to Titusville by railroad on the Fourth, not one was injured in transportation. The arrangements on both railroads were excellent, and the men in charge of the trains are deserving of no small meed of praise. One of the conductors reports that the homeward bound visitors were the best natured and jolliest crowd he ever handled "on a train." When a better class of railroad men can be found than those of the oil regions, we will travel a good ways (dead-head) to see them.

MILK in considerable quantities is now brought to this city by Oil Creek Railroad. The farmers along the line bring the milk in sight and ten gallon cans to the various stations, consigned to dealers here, who supply their customers at their doors. The supply of milk near enough to this city to be brought hither in wagons is far less than the demand, hence the necessity for bringing longer distances and by railroad.

CORRY RACES ON THE FOURTH.—There was a good deal of interest manifested in the races at Corry on the Fourth. The first trotting race was won by R. M. Johnson's "Sleepyhead," his best time being 3:08. The running race, half mile and repeat, was won by S. Johnson's "Eagle;" best time, 55 seconds. The third race was a trotting race for horses that had never beaten 2:43. It was won by "Lady Custar," best time, 2:51½.

GRIFFIN & McMULLEN, at their store on Franklin street, next to the New York Market, offer their customers this morning tomatoes, beans, potatoes, squash, green corn, beets, cabbage, onions, cherries, raspberries, oranges, lemons and bananas, all as fresh as possible. They ask an inspection of their stock.

Installation Services at the Universalist Church.

The services last night at the Universalist Church, on the occasion of the installation of Rev. J. Murray Bailey, as pastor, were of a very interesting character, and were well attended. All the denominations of the city were represented in the congregation.

The interior of the church presented a beautiful appearance, being tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers. The chandeliers, three in number, were adorned with pendant baskets of flowers, while over the arms were graceful festoons of evergreens mingled with flowers. On a table in front of the pulpit were placed baskets and vases of flowers, in the centre of which stood an evergreen cross with a trail of white roses wound around it. On either end of the pulpit and on the platform stood vases of fragrant boquets, and hung around the edges of the pulpit was a line of evergreens and flowers. The whole cast a dainty fragrance through the chapel, and gave to it a fresh, vernal appearance that was truly delightful. On the background of the painted chancel, in an arch, were the words in evergreen, "Welcome to our Pastor!"

It must have been truly gratifying to Mr. Bailey to witness these evidences of the esteem in which he is held by the congregation, which, although small, is composed of some of our most respected and wealthy citizens. We have no doubt that the new pastor's term will be one of pleasure to him and of benefit to his charge.

The services last evening were opened by voluntary music by the organist, after which followed a responsive chant by the minister and choir.

The Rev. J. H. Campbell then read a part of the second chapter of Paul's second Epistle to Timothy.

The choir and congregation followed in singing the congregational hymn given on the programme.

The installation sermon was delivered by Rev. L. J. Fletcher, taking as his text the 1st chap. and 16th verse of Paul's Letter to the Romans. The sermon was a very able and eloquent one, replete with good advice to the pastor.

After the sermon, which occupied about half an hour, the choir sang the "Installation Hymn."

The prayer of Installation was then offered by Rev. W. B. Randolph.

The choir then favored the congregation with a contribution.

The address to the pastor and fellowship of the churches was delivered by Rev. C. L. Shipman, who was followed by Rev. A. G. Laurie in an address to the Society.

An anthem by the choir and the benediction by the newly installed pastor, closed the services, which were enjoyed by all. We will give to-morrow a short sketch of the church and its organization.

A Word of Approval.

Editors Morning Herald:

I desire to utter a word of praise and commendation to you as proprietors of the Titusville HERALD, for what I consider the high-toned and fearless conduct and management of the HERALD.

In these days, when fault finding and grumbling at the daily newspaper, as the chronicler of passing events of a public and private nature, find so ready and so free expression, you cannot be, gentlemen, insensible to a just and even generous appreciation of good conduct and endeavor on your part. A stranger to you personally, though a constant reader of the HERALD, and so not altogether unacquainted, I feel constrained to offer a few words of encouragement and approval, knowing somewhat of the satisfaction it gives in an arduous and toilsome profession, to feel that our efforts for the promotion of the public and private good of community are appreciated.

I have been moved to this expression especially by the bold and fearless, yet just manner in which you ventilated the "Father Mignault" affair, and the outspoken condemnation of the crime for which Attorney Turner was arrested, and of the criminal carelessness of the officers in letting him escape.

In this expression of approval and commendation of your paper, I am moved by no other motive than simply "to praise where praise is due," and I assure you, gentlemen, that from the widest observations I can gather, my own opinions are shared in widely by the best classes of citizens. Very respectfully yours,

J. R. PORTER.

CAMP MEETING AT OIL CITY.—The Free Methodists intend to hold a camp meeting about one mile from the Oil City railroad depot, on the Lea farm, the first grove south on the Venango side, commencing on the 12th of July, and continuing one week. The meeting will be conducted by Rev. Wm. Gould, Chairman. The following ministers are expected to be present: Benjamin T. Roberts, President; J. B. Freeland, Chairman, of Western District Susquehanna Conference; A. F. Curry, of New York City; Geo. W. Anderson, Utica, New York; S. K. J. Chester, of Buffalo, and others. Also, Bro. Joseph Mackey, editor of the Free Methodist, of New York, and Bro. Samuel Irwin, City Missionary.

Friends of the Free Methodist Church, and all who are seeking the old paths, are cordially invited.

R. W. HAWKINS,
Preacher in Charge

CROSBY'S OPERA HOUSE.—The Ravel and Martinettis combined make up one of the best troupes ever seen in this city. M. Paul Ravel is a player of great ability; his personation of Jocko, the intelligent Ape, is as clever as it is unique, and the astonishing feats of physical strength and ability by the Martinettis are highly enjoyable. The programme is a long and varied one, act succeeds act, and one attraction followed another so rapidly, and everything is done so well, that a night slips away almost unconsciously. The troupe will be here for six days more.—Chicago Journal.

New Publications.

Robert Collyer's Sermons on Life and Nature. Ninth Ed. Price $1.50. Horace B. Fuller, 14 Bromfield street, Boston. At Hurd's.

Robert Collyer's new book, full of religion, humanity and nature, is having a rapid and extensive sale through the country. The author is now in England, his native land, and is awakening great enthusiasm among all classes as a preacher of the word of life. Resembling Beecher in his hold upon the popular sympathies of both his hearers and his readers, although differing from him in dogmatic theological points, Mr. Collyer is still the prophet of a high spiritual life and the religion of love, faith and hope. Mr. Fuller, the publisher of his former volume of sermons, is also the publisher of the new volume. That a volume of sermons should be as eagerly read and sought for as a standard novel is one of the signs of the times, and proves some striking originality or power of both thought and expression in the author, and a peculiar insight on his part into the springs of human conduct, and sympathy with the needs and aspirations of our common humanity.

HISTORIC AMERICANS.

Franklin, Washington, Adams and Jefferson, by Theodore Parker, edited by Rev. O. B. Frothingham, 12mo. Price $1.50. Horace B. Fuller, 14 Bromfield street, Boston. At Hurd's.

Theodore Parker's works should have been published immediately after his death, when his subjects, which were always live, practical and contemporary themes, appealing directly and squarely to the passions of the day, were fresh in the public recollection, and when, too, his fame with the country was exalted, and his influence on public opinion was second scarcely to Greeley's and Beecher's among political reformers. But all of Parker could not die. He left behind him a lasting monument of his intellectual power and scholarship, and of his literary industry and taste. Mr. Fuller is the publisher of these works. That on the second President, Adams, as well as the memorable discourse on Daniel Webster, will live as long as any funeral orations in our language.

The volume on Historic Americans comprises the celebrated popular lectures of Mr. Parker, delivered with such signal applause and success in the winter of 1858-9 before the leading lyceums of the country. They form a valuable addition to our biographical literature, and are noble specimens of the author's turn for research, critical acumen, power of expression, and the principles on which he was accustomed to weigh and estimate the character of public men.

BATTLES AT HOME.

By Mary G. Darling, with sixteen original illustrations. Price $1.50. Horace B. Fuller, 14 Bromfield street, Boston. At Howe's P. O. News Room.

This charming story, originally selected for Merry's Museum, by Miss Alcott, author of "Little Women," is now issued in book form. The narrative is lively and graphic, and the interest admirably sustained throughout.

"The story of the Stanley Boys (in 'Battles at Home') during the year of their parents' absence from home, while they battled at their grandfathers with the difficulties and evils that beset boys generally is one of real excellence. It has character without audacity, religion without cant, and living examples of noble doing without a stilted unnaturalness. Miss Alcott was exercising her usual good judgment when she selected and gave it her commendation, and Merry's Museum, in which it appeared as a serial, was setting forth the general high character of its contents when it gave it to its readers. It is a live, wholesome, bracing book."—Morning Star, Dover, N. H.

IN THE WORLD.

A sequel to Battles at Home, with four full-page illustrations. Price $1.50. Horace B. Fuller, 14 Bromfield street, Boston. At Howe's P. O. News Room.

An interval of six years is supposed to have elapsed, when the same characters that take part in "Battles at Home" reappear "In the World." The book is as fresh and thoroughly interesting as "Battles at Home."

"The story is as fresh, and bright, and cheerful, and natural, as almost to make one forget the dreariness, and stiffness, and improbability which go so largely to the making of an ordinary 'juvenile.' We commend this book especially for its cheerfulness and its practical morality. It shows how young folks can conquer their own evil natures, instead of showing how, vanquished in the encounter, they suffer endless woe, as is the fashion of many writers for the young. We hope, in the interest of the rising generation, that the author will write more stories like this and 'Battles at Home.'"—Literary World

DRIVEN TO SEA, OR THE ADVENTURES OF NORRIS SELTON.

By Mr. George Cupples. Illustrated. Gilt rock and leather. Price $1.50. Horace B. Fuller, 14 Bromfield street, Boston. At Howe's P. O. News Room.

There is not a dull chapter in "Driven to Sea," and it will find much favor with all lovers of adventure. Although "Driven to Sea" is intended for young folks, old folks who have not forgotten their youth will be sure to read and enjoy it. Norris Selton, the hero of the story, is a brave, manly fellow, whom the boys will admire and the girls love.

Letter from Petrolia, (Ont.)

PETROLIA, July 1, 1871.

Last week Mr. Clement, of this place, struck the largest well got since the famous King well of 1868. This well yields, by pumping, 300 barrels per day. It has filled a 2,000 barrel ground tank in four days. It is situated about midway between the old King well and the Ironsides, on Lot 11, twelfth concession of Enniskillen. There are now lots of holes going down around it. Mr. Clement only owned a half interest in it, the other half being held by Messrs. Noble & Parson, who have since bought Clement out entirely for $9,000 and something for machinery. It pumps pure oil, without a particle of water, and since it was struck until now—some eight days—it has rather increased. The other wells—the Grace No. 2, McKenzie No. 2, and the Kimball No. 2—are doing very well, the former some thirty barrels per day. The increased supply caused by the late strike will not affect the market, as we are not producing nearly enough for our demands. We could easily manufacture from 2,000 to 3,000 barrels per day.

Eagle, Hart & Co. are repairing their stills, and the late fire of the Carbon Company, make our export trade rather small just now. Other refiners complain that they have not and cannot get enough crude, as the Oil Association will not supply them with more than the market requires.

Business here is generally firm but quiet. Investors outside the charmed ring still flit. Refined oil is looking up, and holders are asking from twenty-two to twenty-three cents in London for quantities. The trade in refined will be lively this year, as the stocks are low, and the refiner will be controlled to a certain extent by the Crude Association. The production for the last week has been a great deal larger—say 1,500 barrels per day. The shipments were not so large. Crude, $1.70; Refined, 22 to 23 cents.

Petition of residents on Main and First streets, asking the Council to order a lamp post to be erected on the northwest corner of Main and First streets, was, on motion of Mr. Myers, granted, and the Gas and Water Committee instructed to cause a lamp-post to be erected, as petitioned for.

On communications complaining of the present condition of a large portion of Water street, Mr. Bryan, chairman of the Street Committee, reported favorably, and moved that the Street Committee be instructed to notify the Union & Titusville Railroad Company to grade said street from Franklin street to the east end of said street. Adopted.

Moved by Mr. Bryan that the Street Commissioner be instructed to notify parties owning or holding property on the south side of west Mechanic street, between Perry and Washington streets, to repair and build sidewalks in front of their property forthwith. Adopted.

Mr. Myers of the Street Committee, in reference to the petition for the opening of a new street between Pine and Wood streets, moved that the City Surveyor give to parties on said proposed street the proper lines of the same, and that the Street Commissioner be instructed to notify parties obstructing said street to remove all obstructions therefrom. Adopted.

The combined partial report of A. B. Howland, Esq., City Surveyor, and G. W. F. Sherwin, Esq., Consulting Engineer, on a system of sewers and grades for the city of Titusville, together with a diagram accompanying the same, were presented to and examined by the Board of Council.

It was moved by Mr. Gibbs that the plans and profiles for the sewerage of Franklin street, as reported by the city surveyor in conjunction with the consulting engineer, be accepted and placed on file. Adopted.

Mr. Gibbs also moved that the Committee on Sewers be authorized to advertise in each of the daily papers, for a period of three weeks, for proposals to lay sewer pipes on Franklin street according to the plans and profiles of the city surveyor and consulting engineer. Adopted.

Moved by Mr. Bryan that the Committee on Leases be authorized to receive bids from the different manufacturers of sewer pipe to furnish the city with sewer pipe. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Jackson the following amendments to ordinances relating to fast driving within the city limits was adopted.

Be it enacted and ordained by the Common Council of the city of Titusville, That section nine of the ordinance relating to fast driving within the city limits be so amended that the penalty attached thereto shall be not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars.

A number of sealed proposals to build engine house on Washington street, were presented to the Building Committee, which, on motion of Mr. Myers, were opened and read by the Clerk.

On motion of Mr. Jackson, said proposals were ordered on file.

It was moved by Mr. Myers that A. Woodward be awarded the contract for erecting said building, complete, except the stonework of the same, and that Messrs. Reed & Lupcik be awarded the contract for doing the stone work for said building, and the excavation for the same. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Jackson, the Street Committee were authorized to order, forthwith, the iron for the bridge over Church Run on Kerr street.

On motion of Mr. Bryan, the Chairman of the Street Committee was instructed to advertise for three weeks for sealed proposals for grading, or paving, or curbing, separate, such streets as will be ordered paved in the city of Titusville, this year.

On motion of Mr Myers the salary of the Street Commissioner was fixed at $1,600 per year.

A communication from Mr. Samuel G Collins in relation to the system of fire alarms was read, and on motion of Mr. Bryan it was referred to the Chief Engineer.

On motion adjourned to Wednesday, July 12, 1871.

GEO. A. CHASE, Clerk.

AN OUTRAGE.—Within a few days, Jacob Mitchell, who resides about two miles from Hamlet, had been to that village during the day, and returning somewhat late, found his wife lying on the bed. He threw himself down upon the lounge, and fell asleep. About 12 o'clock his wife arose, and not knowing of the return of Mr M., went to the door, which she opened and looked out. As she did so, some unknown person hit her with a club over the head, which stunned her, and as she was falling hit a second blow on the back. She uttered a scream which awoke her husband, who went to the door where he found the prostrate form of his wife, but he could discover no one in her being there, and did not know of the blow until her senses returned, when she informed him. No good clue has so far been obtained as to the perpetrator of the foul deed, but suspicions strongly point to the would-be-assassin. They are a young couple, having been married but about six months. Her maiden name was Jackson, and last year she attended the Forestville Union School.—Forestville Farmer.

The Universal Safeguard.—It is useless for State Legislatures to pass laws for the preservation of the public health, if the great law of self-preservation, which depends for its enforcement upon the will of the individual, is suffered to remain a dead-letter.

There is scarcely an adult member of the community, of either sex, in the country, who has not seen the testimony in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, furnished over their own signatures by persons of acknowledged eminence in science, literature, art, commerce, and every department of business and professional life. These witnesses have declared in the most explicit terms that the preparation is a safeguard against epidemics, a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia, a valuable anti-bilious medicine, a promoter of appetite, a general and harmless stimulant, a good sedimenting medicine, a strengthener, of the nerves, a general invigorant, a protection against the deleterious effects of malaria and impure water, and that it imparts a degree of vigor and activity to the vital forces which is not communicated by any other of the tonics and stomachics in use. Under these circumstances the self-preservative law of nature should teach every rational person who, either by reason of inherent debility or in consequence of exposure to unwholesome influences, is in peril of losing the greatest of all temporal blessings, health, the importance of using the bitters as a defensive medicine. Dyspeptics who neglect to give it a trial are simply their own enemies. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion in all its forms, and the bilious and nervous will find nothing in the whole range of official and proprietary medicines which will afford them the same relief.

Miscellaneous.

The famed mosquitoes of New Jersey are being eclipsed by the appearance there of a new blood-letter, called the "stinging porcupine," which has concealed under its wings a number of fine quills, and shoots them at any one attempting to capture it. These work into the skin, causing painful irritation.

Forty-two German authors dedicated their books to Queen Victoria last year. Ten of them received presents of more or less value in return; the other thirty-two were obliged to content themselves with American letters of thanks. It is said American authors propose to follow this fashion, just for the sake of getting the Queen's autograph.

A nice young man in Keary, Tenn., went to bed leaving a burning candle and a pistol on his table. The dripping sperm ignited the table, the table ignited the pistol, the barrel began to explode, and when the young man awoke he was nearly burned, smothered and shot to death. His pillow received the balls and saved his head.

The spoken language of China so differs in every separate province that people living within a hundred miles can no more understand each other's dialect than an Englishman can understand a Spaniard. The Mandarin or "court" dialect is more common than any other, and is used at the capitol and among officials throughout the empire.

An exchange says that he knows of a boy who accidently swallowed a silver half-dollar. They gave him warm water and tartar emetic, and antimonial wine, and poked their fingers down his throat until the boy thought he would throw up his toenails. After a while a doctor came along, who understood such cases. He administered a small dose of patent medicine, and in less than ten minutes the boy threw up the half-dollar in five cent pieces. Science is a great thing.

OPERA HOUSE MUSIC STORE!

Great Reduction in Prices!

I can see no reason for charging people from one to two hundred per cent. more for musical instruments than they have to pay for other articles of trade.

I purpose keeping constantly on hand a fine assortment of

Pianos, Organs, Melodeons, Guitars, Sheet Music, Stools, &c.,

Which I offer to the public at a margin corresponding with other articles of trade. My motto is

SOMETHING UNLOOKED FOR

Nevertheless a Fact!

J. C. HAMILTON,

Is prepared now to receive orders for, and execute the same in the best and finest style of the age, anything in the line of PAINTING, such as

House, Sign, Carriage, Ornamental and Fresco Painting,

Graining, Paper Hanging, Decorative or Plain.

I have had the experience of years in the business, and am a PRACTICAL WORKMAN. This, together with the fact that I have in my employ the very best artists in the several branches, enumerated above that can be found, must be a Guarantee of Good Work.

I have secured the services of late of Philadelphia, who is a good practical decorator and fresco painter, and has proven himself master of his art, and has with him and carries the BEST OF REFERENCES from many different parts of the United States,

MR. T. U. FINCK,

my GRAINER, needs no commending, for his work tells wherever he works. I claim that with my experience and employes' talent, that I can give entire satisfaction in every part of the business, and do work as cheap as any other establishment of the kind in the county, or even better and cheaper considering the quality of my work, than any foreign talent that is in our midst. Now all, or any one that has anything in my line to do that will give me a chance, I will prove to their entire satisfaction that I can and will do any part or all that I assert herein, and even more.
